

Maple Knoll Village

John Fay

Years ago my wife Mary Lee made Nativity sets for members of the family. Upon the death of our sister and brother-in-law, our nephew returned their set to us. For years, every Christmas, my wife promised that she would paint a detailed set for us and every year, the set was put away still in the original wood tones.

This year, with being quarantined due to COVID-19, my wife had plenty of time to fulfill that promise to both of us. Not only did she repaint the set, I was commissioned by my wife to make a stable for the figures which I promptly did out of left-over pieces found in the garage.

This is the final result.
